WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—The operations of the Treasury Department in connection with the California election have been carried on with the greatest secrecy. Not even the Assistant Treasurer at San Francisco knew the amount of money sent to him, and the Treasurer himself was ignorant of the amount of money sent to the Assistant Treasurer. The Treasurer has been receiving telegrams from the Assistant Treasurer at San Francisco, and has been sending telegrams to him, but the amounts have been in round numbers, and not in detail

Evening Services in Paris—Metropolitan Sermons—The Ways of the Emperor—The Ministry—The Chamber—Journalism in the National Guards—Amusements in the Theaters.

From Our Own Correspondent.

PARIS, Aug. 19, 1871.

For two weeks the Weather has been exceedingly hot, and the upon the suburbs of Paris, and even the Champs Elysées, have been almost deserted by those who usually make the Capital their home. Even the Boulevards, at the hour of the evening promenade, have been almost deserted, and the Cafés, which usually reap their richest harvest at this season of the year, have been obliged to close their doors, or to keep them open at a positive loss. Even the Theaters have been compelled to close their doors, or to announce performances which could not be expected to draw a single spectator. Many of the Cafés have been closed for the season, and the proprietors have gone to the Seaside or to the Mountains, to recruit their health and their finances. Those who remain in Paris have been obliged to keep their doors open, and to submit to the loss of gas and waiters, in the hope that the cooler weather of September would bring back their customers. Even the Restaurants have suffered severely from the heat, and many of the most fashionable have been obliged to close their doors, and to seek for a more profitable season in the country. Those which have remained open have been almost deserted, and the proprietors have been obliged to reduce their prices, and to offer inducements to their customers which they would have scorned to offer in the days of the Empire. Even the Cafés Chantants, which usually reap their richest harvest in the hot weather, and which, during the Siege, were crowded to overflowing, have been almost deserted, and many of them have been obliged to close their doors, or to announce performances which could not be expected to draw a single spectator. The Grand Opera, which usually opens its doors for the season on the 1st of September, has been obliged to postpone its opening for a month, and the Théâtre Français, which usually opens on the 15th of August, has been obliged to announce that it will not open its doors until the 1st of October. The Opéra Comique, which usually opens its doors on the 1st of September, has been obliged to announce that it will not open its doors until the 15th of October, and the Gaîté, which usually opens its doors on the 15th of August, has been obliged to announce that it will not open its doors until the 1st of October. The Vaudeville, the Variétés, the Palais Royal, the Gymnase, the Ambigu, the Porte St. Martin, the Cirque, the Folies Dramatiques, the Théâtre Lyrique, the Théâtre Cluny, the Théâtre Déjazet, the Théâtre Beaumarchais, the Théâtre Historique

A WESTCHESTER MYSTERY.

A Supposed Murder in Westchester County Twenty Years Ago—House of the Dead Man Ransacked.

The old adage that "murder will out" seems to be pretty well verified in a case now under investigation by Coroner YOUNG, of Mount Vernon, aided by private detective THOMAS SLOWEY, of New-York, and Constable WILLIAM WATTS of Mount Vernon.

It appears that some eighteen to twenty years ago, a journeyman shoe-maker named THOMAS BROWN, then in the employ of BENJAMIN JONES, who for a period of twelve or twelve years carried on the manufacture of boots and shoes for New-York City stores in a pleasant and quiet neighborhood about half a mile west of the Unionville Station of the Harlem Railroad, mysteriously disappeared from the place. No one seemed to know how or when he went away, and Mr. JONES, when questioned about the whereabouts of BROWN, merely remarked that he had been told that BROWN had died of delirium tremens in New-York. The neighbors took it for granted that Mr. JONES had received definite information on the subject, and therefore ceased to think of BROWN's sudden exit from the village. Various circumstances connected with the domestic affairs of Mr. JONES have kept his name before the residents of their quiet section of Westchester County in an unenviable light. Mr. JONES had previously lived at Randolph, Mass., where his first wife had left him. His second wife died after he removed to Unionville and suffering much from the treatment she received. He subsequently married Miss EMILY POWERS, daughter of Mr. LLOYD POWERS, a resident of the town of Mount Pleasant; but they did not live happily, and she was obliged to flee from his roof. Mr. JONES becoming too old (now seventy years) to pursue an active business life gave it up, and about two years ago sold a portion of his land to Mr. CHARLES WHITE, a farmer, and a portion of it to the purchaser, Mr. MOSES C. TAYLOR, in the month of March or April last. Mr. TAYLOR commenced at once to erect a handsome residence and improve the grounds. Mr. EDWARD OTTERSON, on digging holes for the posts of a rail fence between the garden of Mr. JONES and Mr. TAYLOR, found portions of a human skeleton. Among the bones were the knee caps, and as much the body, while yet warm and flexible, had been crammed into the least possible space; and as the spot where the bones were found was immediately under that portion which had been covered by the south-west corner of Jones' old workshop, it occurred to the finder of the remains in the neighborhood that the bones in question were those of the missing TOM BROWN. Mr. JONES was requested to come and look at them, but none could persuade them to do so. Notwithstanding the firm conviction of the residents of Unionville that a murder had been committed, and that Tom BROWN was the victim, they had no evidence to place the facts before the proper authorities, and thus the case was neglected until Mr. SLOWEY obtained some information on the subject, and communicated the same to Coroner MYERS, who proceeded at once to make an investigation in the matter. On going to Unionville yesterday, and making a search of the premises, a few days since the skeleton and the antecedents of Mr. JONES, the bones in question were exhumed by order of the Coroner. The principal bones of the legs and arms, pieces of the skull, also pieces of the jaw with nine teeth were found, and taken charge of by the Coroner. Mr. JONES was interrogated as considerably to the above discovery yesterday. The case will be further investigated.

Exciting Episode in the Hicks Case.

An abrupt conclusion of the Hicks case was reached yesterday before the Police Commissioners. At the last hearing Mr. JOHN FOLEY produced several witnesses by whose testimony he fully established his charge that Sergt. HICKS, of the Twenty-third Precinct, had permitted a gang of Tammany roughs to break up a meeting of the Enfranchisement Association, called to denounce the corruptions of the Ring. The case was then adjourned until yesterday, to give Sergt. HICKS an opportunity to produce further testimony in his behalf. Mr. FOLEY appeared in Court at the designated hour but Sergt. HICKS was not present, and Mr. FOLEY was about to make some remarks upon the case when he was interrupted by Mr. MANNERS, who objected that Mr. FOLEY did not permit arguments by counsel. Mr. ROSE however proceeded, notwithstanding the interruption, and said "the defendant is not present and by usual 'hocus pocus,'" when the following conversation occurred:

Mr. MANNERS—Stop there, Mr. FOLEY. When you address the Board with "hocus pocus" you cannot be heard further.

Mr. FOLEY—Well, Sir, it is very strange that I can never meet this Sergt. HICKS here. I should judge from the reports in the papers that I was on trial here instead of him.

Mr. MANNERS—Sergt. HICKS was here on the first day, and must be satisfied with the testimony that was given by those who took office. There is nothing in the proceedings to be construed as showing that you were on trial.

Mr. FOLEY—Yes, I was. You allowed a fellow to call me a fraud here; a fellow who is on the City pay-roll.

At this point Mr. WILKS jumped from his seat and exclaimed: "Come outside and say that if you dare. Say you lie, and I'll prove it." A man named MCCLELLAN also exclaimed: "And I say you lie." Great confusion ensued, and at the request of the Court officer all the parties left the room. In the corridor WILKS repeated his expression, when Mr. FOLEY said that he had been credibly informed of the fact he had stated. A serious disturbance of the peace was imminent, but at this moment the parties were separated by the Police and got out of the Central Office premises without any collision. After their exit from the Court room, there being no additional testimony to be offered, the case was referred to the Board, and it was announced that a decision would be rendered to-day.

Dedication of a New Synagogue.

The dedication of the plain and neat brick structure in Fifty-seventh street, between First and Second avenues, known as the Synagogue of the "Adath Israel," or Congregation to Israel, was witnessed yesterday afternoon by a large number of persons belonging to the Hebrew faith. The building is 50 feet front, 70 feet deep, and cost $30,000. It was erected for the use of the congregation who recently worshiped in Brevoort Hall, in East Fifty-fourth street. The dedication ceremonies proved to be of a highly interesting character. They commenced by the removal of a frosted sign of Exodus and scroll-pictures from the portals of the synagogue, and by the singing of a hymn by a choir of boys under the leadership of Mr. JOSEPH KOPPELL. Instrumental music was also performed by a band conducted by Mr. CRACKAW. The processions of the Levites, and the scrolls were deposited in the Ark. After the blessing of the Creator had been invoked, the scrolls were taken from the Ark and were carried around the synagogue five times. Rev. Dr. ISAACS, of the Thirty-fourth-street synagogue officiated as Hazzan. An oration was delivered by Rev. Dr. VIDAVER, in English, and one by Rev. Dr. WASSERMAN in German, the former clergyman speaking of the objects of the synagogue, and explaining the Jewish doctrines. The following is a list of the Trustees of the synagogue: G. SILVERBERG, President; G. NORTHEIM, Secretary; J. KATZ and A. MONNHEIMER.

Official Advertising.

In Supreme Court, Chambers, yesterday. A motion was made before Judge BARNARD to postpone a sale of real estate under foreclosure for two weeks. Mr. FRANK BYRNE, who appeared on behalf of the motion, stated as a reason for the postponement, that though the sale had been advertised for three weeks, as required by law, yet it was advertised in the New-York Transcript, and might as well have been advertised in the Christian Observer, which nobody reads.

Judge BARNARD suggested that the law required that it be advertised in the Transcript.

Mr. BYRNE replied, that he believed they had to come way fixed it at Albany, but what he desired was to have the property advertised in some paper of general circulation, which his client intended to do at their own expense.

Counsel opposed to the motion, represented to the Court that the property could not bring more than half the amount of the judgment in any event; that they had conformed to the law, and any delay would be prejudicial to the rights of his client.

The motion was denied.

Educational Scheme in Brooklyn.

In connection with the Mechanics' and Traders' Exchange of Brooklyn, which has prospered remarkably since its establishment in July, it is proposed to establish an apprentices' library and also an evening school for the benefit of the employees of members of the Exchange. Several architects have volunteered to teach the pupils drawing free of charge, and a number of experts in public schools have also offered their services gratis. A committee is now considering a plan for the establishment of a Mechanics' and Traders' Exchange Bank, the stock of which is to be exclusively owned by the Association. All receipts above seven per cent on stock is proposed to devote to the education of employes or members.

Kings County Supervisors.

The Kings County Supervisors, at their meeting last evening, received a communication from JOHN CUNNINGHAM, keeper of the County Penitentiary, calling attention to the dangerously crowded condition of that edifice. He states that the building has 322 cells for males and 180 cells for females, and as the number of prisoners at present is 350 males and 240 females, it is necessary in some cases to place more than one convict in a cell, which the keeper considers detrimental to discipline. The subject was referred to the Penitentiary Committee for report.

The Committee appointed to confer with the State Board of Assessors as equalizing the assessments in Kings County real estate for State purposes rendered its report, the substance of which has already been published. The Board adjourned to the 15th inst.

The Injunction Against the City.

A number of persons called at the Controller's office yesterday for warrants, and were informed that the injunction issued by Justice BARNARD would prevent any payments being made by the department for the present. Otherwise, there was no change in the usual business of the office. The Board of Apportionment met in secret session at 3 P. M. Nothing could be learned of the nature of the business transacted.

NOTES FROM THE PEOPLE.

Endorsed Advertisements.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

I give you my humble thanks for calling public attention to the abominable advertisements published daily in the Herald, and through which it deliberately aids and abets rape, abortion and murder. Equally do I feel grateful for the fearless language of Judge TROY, of Brooklyn, to the Grand Jury in reference to the same paper. This upright man declares the Press aided by such advertisements, and that it inflicts dishonor on itself "by standing ready for the mercenary consideration of a mean Pecuniary compensation to act as the ancillary confederate and accessory of the class of foul and homicidal miscreants," &c., abortionists. How can this practice be put a stop to? Not by public opinion alone—for, with shame, be it acknowledged, the disreputable newspapers and men of this City are numerous, wealthy and influential enough to defy public opinion; they affect not to heed it, and they continue, in spite of it, their many villainies, as though public indignation at wrong-doing were a matter to be laughed at. And so the Herald persists in inserting the advertisements of pimps, procuresses and abortionists, despite the rebukes and warnings administered to it during the last week. We have fallen on evil days. Bad men have combined and organized a determined effort to ravish and gorge on the ruin of the credit, liberties and morals of this country. It would seem the work is distributed among them according to their tastes. To TWEED and HALL is given the task of accomplishing the ruin of its credit and liberties, but to the Herald the opprobrious part of assailing the chastity of young women and of corrupting the honor and chivalry of young men. What father of a family can admit this paper into his house without fear and trembling, for every morning it tempts his daughter to lust, and teaches he son a contempt for the convictions of honest men and for the decencies of society? Finally, such a paper corrupts the morals of citizens generally by its cynical, sneering way of alluding to the dishonesty prevailing among our public servants. It seems actually to rejoice with devilish glee over the moral and political ruin it is helping to work. In the Pecksniffian articles of the Herald we are met with crocodile tears; and, like the worst of all hypocrites, it affects to deplore a state of society which it has helped to make. I repeat, how can the practice of advertising lust and murder be put a stop to? Judge TROY says there is no law by which such paper as the Herald can be punished. Will the Grand Jury recommend that such a law be enacted? But you, Mr. Editor, and Judge TROY, and all other reformers of licentiousness and of the soul-killing worship of the golden calf, deserve the heartfelt gratitude and steady encouragement of all who deplore the success nowadays of bold, bad men, and bold, bad principles.

Not an Office-Holder.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

In the letter of Hon. HORACE GREELEY, published last Saturday, in which he gives a list of names of delegates to the Republican Central Committee of this City, whom he states hold office under the Federal Administration, I notice my name as office-holder in the Custom-house. I desire most respectfully to contradict the statement, as I never held an office of any kind; neither am I an applicant. Nevertheless, I consider it an honor to any gentleman who does hold office under so honest and economical an Administration as that of our unparalleled President, U. S. GRANT. I also notice the names of two gentlemen from the same district who are not delegates at all. Out of twelve delegates to the Central Committee from the Eleventh Assembly District but two are office-holders, and they are under the Republican Administration, and not Tammany Hall.

By giving space to the above in your valuable columns you will confer a favor on

D. G. MCKELVEY, JR.,
Delegate to Republican Central Committee.

Connolly's Carriages and Tweed's Real Estate.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

In speaking of the purchase for "carriage hire to Controller's office," (Sept. 5,) you add: "Mr. CONNOLLY, it is said by one of his apologists, does not keep a private carriage." Such is not the fact; he has a variety of carriages, and can be seen in the Park with his double team, or on Broadway in his coupé, with liveried driver, &c., almost daily. I notice among transfers of real estate: "Friday, Aug. 4, Fifty-seventh-street, north side, twenty-five feet west of Ninth-avenue, WILLIAM M. TWEED to MICHAEL W. DURHAM, $200,000." What is the matter? Is the Boss going to put his (our) real estate in his pocket to prevent his being obliged by process of law to deliver it up to the City as a part of his stealings? Cannot an injunction be obtained to prevent him and his Co. from making such transfers until an investigation shall show in whom the title really vests?

TAX-PAYER.

NEW-YORK, Tuesday, Sept. 5, 1871.

Which Is the Chief?

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

The office of Chamberlain was created by the old Dongan Charter, which appointed "PETER DE LANOY, citizen and inhabitant of the said City, to be the present Chamberlain or Treasurer of the City aforesaid."

By an act of the Legislature, passed April 9, 1813, the Chamberlain of the City of New-York was required, in respect to all moneys levied and collected, and also in respect to all moneys to be levied and collected in said City, for the use of the State, to perform the like duties as the Treasurers of the several counties of this State are required to do and perform.

By another act, (Second Revised Laws, 339, section 151,) "That Chamberlain of the City and County of New-York shall be considered the County Treasurer thereof."

By the amended charter of 1857, chapter 446, section 22, there was established a bureau in the Department of Finance, "for the reception of all moneys paid into the Treasury of the City, and for the payment of moneys on the warrants drawn by the Controller, and countersigned by the Mayor and Clerk of the Common Council; and the chief officer thereof shall be called the 'Chamberlain of the City of New-York.' The Chamberlain shall keep books showing the amounts paid on account of the several appropriations; and no warrants shall be paid on account of any appropriations, after the amount authorized to be raised by tax for that specific purpose shall have been expended."

With some unimportant changes and modifications this is the law under and in pursuance of which the officers of the City and County Government have been authorized to conduct this "Bureau" of the "Department of Finance."

This "Bureau" was and is the place of deposit of all moneys, and all moneys unlawfully abstracted therefrom are chargeable to the officers thereof. Each one of those infamous warrants was passed upon and approved by the Chamberlain before one cent of the money could have been stolen by a thief or divided among thieves.

The old Citizens' Association did some good service in the days of its youth, one of the acts of which was, with the aid of the late counselor it then employed, to extract a confession from the Chamberlain of that day that he was defrauding the City and County out of the entire income from its great deposits, and under a threat of an immediate application to an Equity Court to enjoin further misappropriation, and for an accounting, that officer consented to make a voluntary accounting thereafter, and pay the City its due. How fully or fairly that plain duty has since been fulfilled it is yet impossible to ascertain.

The County Tax Levy of 1869, section 4, provided that "the County Treasurer (Chamberlain) of the County of New-York shall hereafter be entitled to receive and retain the same fees and compensation for his services, as said Treasurer, or that office was entitled by law to receive in the year 1869, not to exceed $10,000 per year." So that want of compensation has been no just cause of complaint by that officer since that time.

Now, Mr. Editor, since we find such is required a comparison of the respective salaries, emoluments most of the former officers, with those of the present, and the decision of the following members to supply their place: A. P. Williams, Harvey M. Dibble, E. O. Sewell, Jos. H. Oglesby, Walter R. Waite, J. P. Bronson, J. R. West, Robt. B. Campbell, G. F. Sherman, and A. G. Brice. Mr. JONES, as a prominent candidate, now connected with the Pennsylvania Central Railroad, was elected Commissioner on the part of the Company. Mr. JEFF THOMPSON, the State Engineer, has since been appointed Commissioner on the part of the State; and it is understood that Gen. FORSTER, of the United States Engineer Corps, has been selected by the Secretary of War, as representative of the United States upon the Board, delegated to locate and supervise the construction of the levees. It is confidently expected that the work will be under way by the 20th of the present month, and its earliest attention will be given to the localities of Bonnet Carré and Carrollton. What can objections to the amount to be paid for completing and operating this great public work to a private corporation, there can be no doubt that the regular system of levees in contemplation—independent of its unequal taxation features—will redound to the advantage of the State, both on the score of economy and security, while an honest and economical administration of its affairs, with an early and efficient prosecution of its work, will do no little toward commending it to public favor. The losses from overflow have been so enormous of past years, and the sufferings resulting therefrom so calamitous, that almost any fairly-administered system, which would protect our lands and plantations against such overflows as have been known, whether the engineering undertaken will test accomplish all the desirable ends is yet to be determined. We have only now to wait and judge of the tree by the fruit it produces."
